CPNI Notification

Customer Proprietary Network Information (CPNI) is information that telecommunications carriers obtain about services their customers subscribe to. This information can include local and long-distance calling details, usage and in general what services customers use.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) requires customers to provide a password when customers contact a telecommunications carrier, such as Twin Lakes, before the carrier can release any call detail or online information, to protect your CPNI details. It also requires carriers to notify customers of account changes.

We recommend that if you have not set up an account password, visit or call your local Twin Lakes' business office. If you would like to opt-out of Twin Lakes using your CPNI for any marketing purposes, please contact your local Twin Lakes' business office within 30 days of this notification. If no opt-out contact has been made within 30 days, Twin Lakes will assume you approve the use of your CPNI for the purposes of providing you with information about other communications-related services available through Twin Lakes. Regardless of opt-in or opt-out, Twin Lakes does not sell or share information with other carriers.

Labor Day Holiday

As a reminder, all Twin Lakes' business offices will be closed on Monday, September 7th for the Labor Day holiday. We hope you enjoy this day with friends and family!
